START 2016 WITH DESERT LANDSCAPE DESIGN IN MIND Glendale Offers Free Landscape Design Class

Glendale, Ariz. — Is revamping your outdoor space on the list of “things to do” in 2016? While your yard is dormant this winter, get a jump start on planning a delightful water- and energy-efficient landscape by attending the free Landscape Design class on Saturday, January 9th from 10 a.m. to noon at the Glendale Main Library (5959 W. Brown St). The class kicks-off a new year of the Glendale Conservation and Sustainable Living program’s free monthly “Green Living” class series.

Whether you just want to give your yard a facelift or you’re new to the Valley of the Sun, this class provides the basics on landscape design for our distinctive climate. Our speaker, Jo Miller, is an expert landscape designer with over 25 years of experience in Arizona. Jo will guide you through the essential design steps for a landscape that saves water and energy. If you are looking to renovate a small or large portion of your yard this is a great class to get tips, ideas, and practical resources. A good design is the first step to having a yard and garden adapted for our desert climate.

The series will continue each month with new topics, guest speakers, and local experts. For a complete listing of the “Green Living” class series, go to www.glendaleaz.com/green. The classes are free, but advance registration is required by calling 623-930-3760 or e-mailing greenliving@glendaleaz.com. You do not have to be a Glendale resident to attend.
